

FARMERS HELP THE FUND ALONG

Brookville Relief Reaches Magnificent
Total of $1,414.94 and Still More is Coming.

RAFFLE WILL ADD DOLLARS

Tickets for Home Talent Concert Are Placed on Sale—Much Bed
Clothing Donated.

The Brookville relief fund reached the magnificent total of $1,414.94 today—and the most encouraging thing is that there are a few hundred coming in yet.

The farmers were generous givers today. They contributed many dollars to the fund this afternoon, which was the first opportunity of many to come to the Daily Republican office.

The fund will be closed sure Tuesday night. It was originally intended to bring it to a close Monday night, but it was held open for another day after the home talent concert was announced for Monday night.

This and the sale of chances on the bedroom suit will add several dollars to the fund. The suit will be raffled off at Betker's store Tuesday evening at seven-thirty o'clock.

The proceeds from the Tri Kappa's exchange, which was held today, will not be reported until Monday. At noon ten dollars worth of food had been sold.

Not enough automobiles have been offered yet for the trip to Brookville in the morning with the bed clothing. The more owners that are willing to make the trip, the lighter the load will be for each machine. It is estimated that there are not enough machines yet to carry all the things that have been contributed. The plan is to have the autos loaded ready to leave Rushville at eight-thirty.

Indications today were that the home talent concert at the Main Street Christian church next Monday evening and the sale of chances on the bedroom suit would net several hundred dollars for the fund. Both are apparently very popular movements.

Many men volunteered to sell tickets today and it appeared that at least two hundred would be sold before six o'clock this evening. Men were on the street this afternoon hailing farmers and others to help along, and every one was generous.

Paul McMahan, a high school student and one of the ticket agents at the I. & C. traction station went to Milroy, New Salem and Andersonville today with a hundred tickets, expecting to sell all of them. He made the trip on a motorcycle and it was reported this afternoon that he made a large sale at New Salem.

It was being freely guessed today that the Christian church would be filled Monday night for the home talent concert. The aid of all the artists in Rushville has been offered, and they, together with Jesse Pugh, who is home for a few weeks, guarantee a very entertaining program.

GOOD ROAD TO BROOKVILLE

It was learned by talking to the Auto Inn owners at Connersville over the telephone this afternoon that the roads to Brookville were in good condition and were being used all the time by motorists. This means no difficulty will be experienced in the trip tomorrow. Antoinists who will help are urged to be at the Republican office by seven-thirty.

WILL BUILD 40 STABLES

Harrie Jones Prepares to Care For His Own String.

Harrie Jones has started men at work to build forty stables on the south hill overlooking Riverside park to accommodate his own string of horses only. It is not known what the other Rushville trainers who have been using Riverside park each spring will do. The recent flood damaged most of the training stables beyond repair and the track was considerably washed in places. Mr. Jones will repair the track himself, but it is likely that his father, W. A. Jones, will not repair the levees until next fall, when his men are not busy with farm work.

SHOE MERCHANT FALLS OFF BICYCLE

Ben A. Cox Sustains Broken Wrist
Bone in Accident in North Main Street This Morning.

HE BREAKS A GOOD DISH ALSO

Ben A. Cox, the shoe merchant, fell from his bicycle this morning while riding down to his store from home and broke one of the bones in his left wrist. The socket in which the bone rests was shattered. He went to Sexton's sanatorium at once and Dr. J. C. Sexton set the bone.

"I was riding along in front of L. R. Retherford's house carrying a dish belonging to Fred Oldham in one hand and guiding the bicycle in another," said Mr. Cox this morning describing the accident. "Bill Cook spoke to me, and I turned my head just as the front wheel struck a stick. My left foot slipped off the pedal and away I went. The dish is still up there in the street. I haven't had it set yet."

L.L. BROADDUS ON BENCH NEXT WEEK

Connersville Attorney Will Act as Special Judge in Number of Cases Here.

SEVERAL OF IMPORTANCE

Judge Megee has appointed L. L. Broaddus of Connersville to try a number of cases and Mr. Broaddus will begin his duties as special judge here Monday. Judge Megee is interested in a number of the cases Mr. Broaddus will try and in order to dispose of them it was necessary to appoint a special judge.

Judge Broaddus will act as judge in the following cases: Conolly vs. Hall, et al.; Case vs. Price; Rushville National bank vs. Bickhart; Kieth Furniture and Car company vs. Offutt; Strauss vs. Offutt; Churchman vs. Offutt; Orme vs. City of Rushville; Sage vs. Spahr; Robert Powell vs. Ida M. Lowden; Creed vs. Gahimer; Weever vs. Board of commissioners; Pinnell-Tompkins Lumber company vs. Rushville Brick company; William vs. Nelson; McKay vs. Brooks; Day vs. Schrieft; State, ex-rel, Mary Bradley vs. Henry Johnson; Jones vs. City of Rushville.

J. W. Tompkins was able to be out today for the first time after a long illness.

SOME ESCAPED YEARS AGO

Local Authorities Get Descriptions of Prisoners Who Have Made Good Escapes.

Escaped prisoners are becoming numerous these days for the local authorities have received notices of several men who have gained their liberty and rewards ranging from $60 to $300 are offered for their capture.

James S. Johnson, alias Joe Denton, who is wanted by the Burns agency, is a gambler and frequents race tracks. He is a member of the well-known Mabray gang. Three hundred dollars is offered for his return.

The following are wanted at Leavenworth, Kansas, the federal authorities offering rewards for their return. Some of them have been gone since 1898.

Frank Grigare, alias James Gordon, alias E. E. Hollingshead, known as No. 6768 while in prison, who escaped April 21, 1910, was sent up for life for robbing a mail train on the Union Pacific, May 22, 1909, near Omaha, Neb. A $200 reward is offered for his return.

David Hunt, a white man, aged 24 years, escaped November 7, 1901. He was received at the penitentiary June 10, 1898, from the United States court at Vinita, Indian Territory, on a five-year sentence for stealing cattle and horses. A reward of $60 is offered for his return.

A man described as an all-around criminal is W. O. Murray, who escaped November 7, 1901, the same day as Hunt. He was received at the penitentiary on a five-year sentence on November 23, 1900, from the United States court at Purcell, Indian Territory, for stealing horses and cattle. He will do anything in the way of robbing banks, depots, post-offices or holding up and robbing persons on public roads. He is a desperate crook and outlaw. One hundred dollars will be paid for his return.

J. P. Birchfield alias Jim Jones, age 48, escaped in 1899. He is described as an all-around crook and will steal anything he can get his hands on. One hundred dollars will be paid for his return.

HE GIVES THEM A CHANCE

Horatio Havens Refers Chicago
Committee to Brookville.

Horatio Havens of the Callaghan Dry Goods company had several letters from the Chicago Association of Commerce, by the flood relief purchasing committee, offering to help Rushville flood sufferers. He replied that no outside aid was needed here, but when the committee persisted, he referred them to Brookville and told them there was plenty of opportunity to help there. This morning he received a reply stating that the committee had sent $1,600 worth of supplies there and that all their funds had been turned over to the Red Cross society, and that E. P. Bicknel, the society's representative, who is now at Columbus, O., should be consulted.

MEETING WAS MILD SUCCESS

Directors of Telephone Company
Were All Named by Acclamation—
R. F. Scudder New Member.

PLANS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Company in Good Financial Shape,
Present Indebtedness Being
$5,000—Paid Off $11,700.

The annual meeting of the Rushville Co-Operative Telephone company, held last night in the assembly room of the court house was a mild affair and very little interest was shown. All the directors were elected by acclamation and not one contest developed. The stock-holders were still arriving when the meeting adjourned.

The only contest of the evening was between Dr. F. M. Sparks and R. F. Scudder for the directorship made vacant by the resignation of Judge Megee. But this contest did not last long as Dr. Sparks withdrew and Scudder was elected by acclamation. Both men were candidates and supplied the stockholders with printed ballots.

Robert L. Tompkins, John H. Frazer and Frank Reynolds were directors re-elected. Mr. Scudder was elected to succeed John D. Megee. The other members of the boards, whose terms expire next year are Ben L. McFarlan, W. A. Jones and J. M. Amos. The board of directors will meet within ten days and organize, as the directors name the officers.

The financial condition of the company as shown by the secretary's report is very good. Secretary Jackson in his annual report showed that the company has 1359 phones in operation. This does not include extension phones. On the first of April, 1912, the company had an indebtedness of $16,700. During the last year $11,700 was paid on this and the company is now in debt only $5,000. This indebtedness is to the Rush county and the Rushville National banks. The report of the secretary was referred to an auditing committee composed of A. L. Winship and L. M. Sexton. The showing of the company as made in the report of the secretary was met with approval by the stockholders present. The company is in the best financial condition it has been since the automatic phone system was installed.

Samuel L. Trabue made a talk on the party line phone and the directors were informed that it was the wish of the stockholders to abolish this system and improve the plant so that each of these party line phones could be taken over and given a single line. It has been the intentions of the directors for some time to make some improvements in the local plant and do away with the party line phone. It was stated that owing to the absence from the city of two of the directors for most of the winter the proposed improvements had been delayed. It is the opinion of the secretary that the Public Utilities Commission will have something to say to the local telephone company and as the commission does not go into effect until May 1, the improvements will not likely be started until after this time.

There had been considerable talk lately of the New Salem telephone asking the local company for an interchange of service. This evidently was talk and nothing more as the subject was not even mentioned. It is probably as far as it would have gone because the board of the local telephone company is opposed to the plan suggested by the New Salem company.

KNIGHTSTOWN MAN HURT

Was Caught by Belt in Power House
There.

William J. Smith, age 38 years, was badly injured Thursday at the Knightstown power plant. The accident was rather a peculiar one, Mr. Smith getting caught in the belt of the large dynamo and being hurled to the floor, causing a slight fracture of the skull and breaking three ribs. He was taken to his home and his wounds dressed by a physician. Smith has been employed at the plant as an electrical engineer for some time. It was at first thought that the injuries would prove fatal but Mr. Smith was reported better today and will probably recover.

MONDAY WILL BE CLEANING UP DAY

If the Weather Man Will Hold Off
Long Enough Wishes of City
Will be Carried Out.

FIRST SET FOR WEDNESDAY

The weather permitting, of course, clean-up day will be observed in Rushville Monday. The miserable weather man has been interfering so much lately that most everything has been bowing to his will. The city council decided and the mayor proclaimed that clean-up day should be held in Rushville last Wednesday, but that was impossible. The rain fell incessantly all day—and the next day, it rained. The mayor announced that the cleaning up would be postponed indefinitely until the weather man acted more agreeable. The rain would not have prevented the wagons from gathering up the accumulated trash yesterday, but the river was out of its banks and the dump could not be reached. Today was not suited for the undertaking and the mayor announced this afternoon that Monday would be set for clean-up day. The mayor urges that people not forget that debris must be placed in the alley in some receptacle if they wished it hauled away. Brush should be burned.

FALL MEET AT MILROY.

The 1913 fall meeting of the Indiana Presbytery of the United Presbyterian church will be held at Milroy. The session which just adjourned at Bloomington elected the Rev. Paul Stewart, pastor of the Milroy church, secretary of Sabbath schools, and the Rev. A. W. Jamieson of this city superintendent of missions and one of the two commissioners for the general assembly to be held at Atlanta.

CHANCE TO EARN A GOLD MEDAL

Director of Office of Public Roads
Offers For Best Composition on Subject.

SHOULD SUBMIT THEM MAY 15

Any Boy or Girl Between Ten and Fifteen Years of Age May Compete in This Contest.

A gold medal to the school boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 15 who writes the best composition, not to exceed 800 words, on the repair and maintenance of earth roads, is to be awarded by Logan Waller Page, Director, Office of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. All compositions must be submitted to Mr. Page before May 15, 1913, and the medal will be awarded as soon thereafter as the compositions can be graded. The composition may be based on knowledge gained from books or other sources, but no quotations should be made.

After many years' experience in dealing with the public road situation of the country, it is Mr. Page's belief that ignorance on the subject of repair and maintenance of roads is as much the cause of their bad condition as any other one factor. It is expected that the competition will bring about a better understanding of the subject of repair and maintenance in the rural districts.

Many children living in the rural districts have experienced the disadvantages of roads made impassable through a lack of proper maintenance and it is expected that their interest in the competition will stimulate greater interest among the parents. Bad roads have prevented many children from obtaining a proper education and have even prevented doctors from reaching the side of rural patients in time to save their lives.

Any child between the ages mentioned, attending a country school, may compete. Only one side of the paper must be written on; each page should be numbered; the name, age and address of the writer, and the name and location of the school which he or she is attending must be plainly written at the top of the first page. The announcement of the competition has been sent to the superintendents of schools in the rural districts. No further information can be obtained from the Office of Public Roads. This announcement should be plain to everyone, and all children will thus start on a basis of equality.

"STARVE THE FLY" IS SLOGAN OF WAR ON THE WINGED DEATH

Pest Once Called Nature's Scavenger Now Known and Feared.

By ODGERS T. GURNEE.

SPRING days are upon us, and once more the cry of "Swat the fly!" is sounding from every point of the compass. Farsighted housewives are bringing out their window screens, and boys and girls are busy devising new and deadlier traps for the war of extermination. Not many years ago the fly was a welcomed guest in our homes. We called him "nature's scavenger." Now we call him "the winged death" and "the world's greatest murderer." There are still a great many people who, either through ignorance or some weird and unexplainable reasons, contend that the crusade against the fly is nonsensical. When it is recalled that a single fly carries 6,000,000 germs about with it and that flies as a whole cause 100,000 deaths a year the seriousness and necessity of the campaign is shown.

Last summer a great deal of money was spent in bringing the danger before the public, and the majority of towns instituted "swat" contests with more or less success.

This year a new slogan is being preached from the various headquarters of extermination. It is "Starve the fly."

Perhaps you noticed last year after a long siege of swatting that despite your numerous conquests there was no apparent diminution in the fly population and by next morning things were worse than ever. That is because the winter fly was allowed to breed at will and doors and windows were not properly screened.

Two flies now mean a million next August.

Therefore the logical thing to do is exterminate the flies now. How that can best be done is a problem.

Cleanliness Is Important.

Absolute cleanliness is the first and most important rule in any fly fighting campaign. If you have a stable be sure that all sweepings are removed twice a day and that the manure pit is emptied at least once every three days. The pit should be made of concrete and tightly covered. It is a good plan to sprinkle the manure with green vitriol, iron sulphate, chloride of lime, paris green or kerosene.

The next important consideration is the garbage. This should be kept away from the house in air tight tins. Keep the covers firmly on except when a fly trap is used. Chloride of lime treatment should be generously applied to the garbage cans to make sure there are no lurking maggots.

Abolish the old fashioned outhouse. It is the worst menace to health. Where this is impossible, however, liberal application of unslaked lime must be made daily.

The chicken house and sheep or pigpen must be handled much in the same way as the stable, care being taken not to poison the animals.

All open drains should be abolished and cesspools carefully covered.

"Swat" Flies In the House.

Now we come to the house. Every fly in the house is a menace to life. Seventy-five per cent of the infant mortality during summer months is caused directly by flies. Born in the filth of the manure pit they invade the nursery or the dining room and track their hairy germ infested feet across the food and bathe in milk.

Then it is time to use the "swatter." A few of the pests are bound to get in, no matter how well screened the windows are. Get after them promptly before they have had time to lay eggs or your troubles will be more than doubled.

The greatest care should be taken of all uncooked food in the kitchen, especially meat, where the mother fly loves to lay her eggs. The milder forms of poison can be used indoors, and although sometimes inconvenient the sticky flypaper is very effective.

The baby's bed should be very carefully screened and every one of its eating utensils cleansed in boiling water. The nipple of the milk bottle is very often a source of infection and should be kept in a safe place and frequently cleansed in peroxide and water.

It is a common complaint that although one citizen puts his best efforts to cleaning up and killing the fly his next door neighbor may be so lax in his methods that the good work is nullified.

That's the time to get after the town authorities. If they can't or won't do anything, put it up to the county or state officers.

Seven Important Rules.

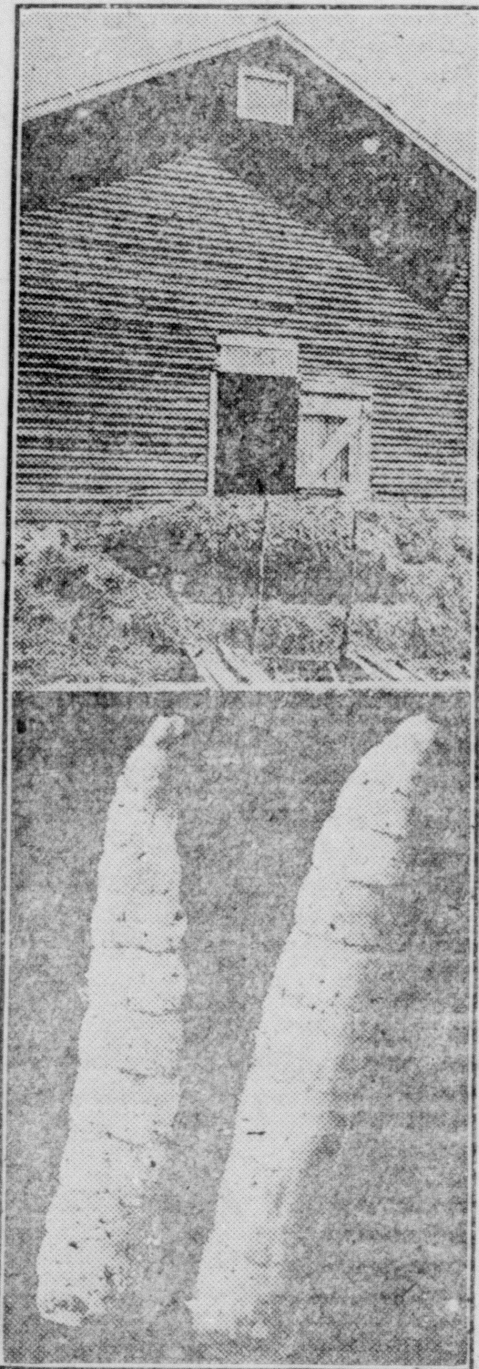

The fly fighting committee of the American Civic association has issued the following seven rules for starting and conducting an anti-fly campaign which will be advantageous in a case of this sort:

1. Educational work should be begun at once in schools, women's clubs and other civic organizations, because if you wait until the flies appear in the spring they will be multiplying by the million while you are doing organization work that ought to have been done during the cold weather. This committee, as in former years, will co-operate with local committees, furnishing literature and answering questions as to methods of individual campaigns, etc.

2. In your movements for passing of general cleanup and anti-fly ordinances first secure the interest of the state health department. If you find difficulty in doing this by mere force of suggestion employ other legitimate means of stirring them to action—petitions from local or state organizations, boards of trade, women's clubs, town improvement societies, etc. If the head of the state health service is not cordially co-operating with you he can be shamed into it.

3. Employ similar tactics, if necessary, with the health authorities, aldermen and other officials of your city or town.

4. Get ordinances passed (state if possible, local at any rate) for the screening of foodstuffs, the chemical treatment and removal of manure, etc., but do not think that because you have an ordinance it will enforce itself. Eternal vigilance is the price of freedom from filth and flies. Probably even the most energetic and sympathetic health officer will be unable with the force of inspectors at his command to discover all the violations of the ordinance. You must help him by volunteer inspection and reports. If then he is lukewarm in the prosecution of offenders make his position uncomfortable. If the magistrates refuse to impose fines for proved violations make it uncomfortable for them too. It's all very simple if you are in earnest.

5. Colorado and Texas have instituted the custom of state wide "cleanup days." Induce the governor of your state by proclamation to set aside a day for such a purpose, and if he cannot be induced to do so—but he probably can if proper representations are made to him—at least get your mayor to proclaim a local "cleanup day."

6. If you must have "fly swatting" contests to stimulate interest in your local campaign let them be held as early in the spring as possible, while there are comparatively few flies. If you could find and kill all the spring flies—as of course you cannot—there would be none to trouble you in the summer.

7. Be careful to brush up any flies that may be lying around with their feet up in the air, looking as if they were dead. They may be playing possum. The only safe way is to burn them. Do not throw them out or into the garbage can, as they will become active as soon as the temperature rises.

Various Successful Plans.

Many town and city health boards carried on the fight through the medium of exhibits and moving pictures. St. Johnsbury, Vt., had a novel scheme for gaining the co-operation of its tradespeople. Every store, market, restaurant and hotel in the town was visited, and the proprietors were asked to sign a card which read as follows:

We, the undersigned, desire to co-operate with the townspeople in placing our goods in such a manner as to sanitary manner possible. We hereby agree to keep our windows and doors properly screened, to keep all food, fruit, meat and bakery goods screened and to keep fly traps set—in short, to do our part in helping rid the town of our enemy the fly.

A list of all the signers was published in a local newspaper.

This is an excellent plan. The published list not only induces others to sign the card, but also spurs them to greater efforts.

Fly Killing Contests Harmful.

The fly fighting committee through its chairman, Edward Hatch, Jr., also says:

"I sincerely hope there may be no more fly killing contests. They were useful when the public needed to be stirred up to a realization of the deadly activities of the fly, and their success as an advertisement of the movement has been immense, but they have served their purpose, and now that the people are generally enlightened as to the nature of the fly pest they do actual harm by clouding the real issue of extermination.

"This is the opinion of Professor Herms of the University of California, who has been interested in the anti-fly campaigns in a number of California towns. He and his scientific associates feel that the work has been hampered this year by the prevalence of fly swatting campaigns, the result of which is to encourage people to kill flies, whereby they lose sight of the only efficient method of diminishing the pest—that is, cleaning up their breeding places." Professor Herms stated that in one town a good campaign had been interrupted by the substitution of "fly swatting" for cleaning up.

"Our good friends the newspapers (to which the committee realizes its deep indebtedness for the publicity which has made the fly fighting campaign so signally successful thus far) can do far better work this year than they did last summer. Instead of instituting fly killing contests, which sometimes have the result of stimulating the breeding of flies by enterprising contestants, let them give prizes for clean back yards, well screened stables, covered garbage cans, or, if their journalistic ingenuity is not equal to the task of making such prize contests serve the purpose of the circulation department, let them at least urge in their news and editorial columns, even more than they have done before, the starvation plan of campaign."

Good Work by Women.

It is also a field of endeavor where women can really help. This was clearly demonstrated in Spencer, Ia., where the Women's club inaugurated one of the most satisfactory campaigns of the season. They first distributed a letter setting forth their aims and how they might be attained to every house in town. At the same time letters were sent to the mayor and aldermen telling them of the work and asking them to use their influence to protect citizens from the evils of insanitary conditions.

The mayor fell in with the plan at once, issuing a notice that all premises must be carefully cleaned and backing up this order to the limit of his authority. This was Spencer transformed into a veritable "spotless town" and made a desert to the deadly fly. This is an instance of what the weaker sex can accomplish. The boys and girls have also performed nobly in the fight and deserve a great deal of credit. The boy scouts in many towns have formed the nucleus for sweeping reform, and the same applies to various campfire girl clubs and church auxiliaries.

Every one can help somewhere. Co-operation is the basis of success in everything, and so long as one narrow minded member of a community is allowed to lag behind and maintain an Eden for the filthy fly upon his premises, just so long will that community continue to be subject to discomfort, disease and death.

Insects In League With Death.

"Science has issued an edict which should be as unalterable as the laws of the Medes and Persians," declares Dr. Henry Smith Williams. "It is 'kill every creeping, flying thing that looks to you for board.' Various insects have been found to be in league with death—to be, in fact, the only means whereby some of the world's most virulent diseases are carried from victim to new victim.

"Persistent, never let up warfare against them is the only way to rid man of these dangerous enemies. They won't let you alone. Get after them and don't let mercy temper your warfare. Kill!"

This is splendid advice to follow.

There are two very important things to be remembered—one is that cleanliness is next to godliness, and the other "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

With The Churches

NO HAIR CUT FOR 8 YEARS.

Englishman Won't Visit Barber Till Tories Win.

E. F. Boxwell, the Democrat in the United States who had his hair cut on March 4 for the first time in sixteen years, has a rival in Fred Wilkins, landlord of Trow Tree Inn, at Burchill, three miles from Hereford, England, who made a vow when the Liberals were elected in 1905 that he would not have his hair cut or his face shaved until the Tories were returned to power.

Wilkins' beard now hangs to his waist, and his hair reaches to the middle of his back. When he goes to Hereford market, which is not often he fastens his hair with combs under a wide Tilly hat. He is a staunch Tory, but he remarked recently, "I think my hair and government will both stay where they are for a long time yet."

AMERICAN BOY SCOUTS TO HAVE A JUNKET ABROAD

Receive Invitation to Attend Great English Rally In July.

Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, chief scout of the British boy scouts, has sent an invitation to the Boy Scouts of America to attend the third national rally of the Boy Scouts' Association of Great Britain in Birmingham, England, July 2 to 9, inclusive. It is likely that several troops will go from this country to England to attend the rally and perhaps participate in the scoutcraft exhibition.

The leaders of the scout movement have asked that all scouts who are planning to go across this summer will try to arrange their dates to be in Birmingham during the rally. Scoutmasters should write to James E. West, chief scout executive, in New York city.

The rally will have three important parts. There will first be a demonstration of activities of scouts in honor of King George. Secondly will come the display of the activities of the scouts. The third will be the scoutcraft exhibition. The exhibition will illustrate the various industries and handicrafts in which scouts are obtaining proficiency. There will be displays of the work of scouts in first aid, in carpentry, dairying, electricity, gardening, leather working, pathfinding, photography, pioneering, poultry farming and the like.

CHAMELEON PERFUME USED.

Parisians Discover Formula Giving Different Odor to Each.

The craze of the moment in Paris is a new perfume, which gives out a different odor on every person using it.

When in a bottle the scent has the smell of fresh flowers, although it is Impossible to say of what particular kind. It is rather a synthesis of the scents of all natural flowers. As soon as a few drops touch the skin, however, it alters completely its character, according to the color and temperament of the user.

Thus on a brunette it has a scent resembling that of the rose or pink, although still remaining undefined. On a blond it comes nearer the violet or lilac.

In every case in which it is tried the result is different. It even changes on the skin of the same person from time to time. It is stated to be distinctly affected by strong emotions in the wearer.

Several leading chemical analysts are trying to solve the secret of this perfume, but so far without success.

Its composition, however, is so simple that any one can prepare it himself at home. It consists of twenty grams of extract of petal flowers, eighty-five grams of alcohol at 90 per cent strength, three grams of tincture of benzoin scented with vanilla and ten grams of rosewater.

ARABIC SPELLING SIMPLIFIED.

Professor Asserts Ancients Used Unique Form of Orthography.

That the Lord's Prayer was originally written in Arabic verse was the assertion by Professor C. G. Torrey of Yale at a recent session of the American Oriental society at the University of Pennsylvania. To prove his statement Professor Torrey recited a portion of the Arabic version.

Professor Maurice Bloomfield of Johns Hopkins university cited the Vedic concordance as his authority for a statement that the ancients used simplified spelling and that it was more simplified and sensible than that used by the moderns.

As an indication of blue blood and of legitimate birth the ancients used to swear on the thigh, according to Professor C. A. B. Brockwell of McGill university, Canada.

GENERAL CLAMOR REACHES CAUCUS

Manufacturers and Producers Making a Roar.

DON'T LIKE THE TARIFF BILL

Every Train Reaching Washington Bears Delegations Who Are Prepared to Demand That Amendments Be Offered to Alter Proposed Schedules Affecting Their Respective Lines—Probably Long Fight Over Sugar.

Washington, April 12.—In considering the Underwood tariff bill the first change came when the Democratic caucus of the house voted to put shoe machinery on the free list and the finance committee of the senate adopted a motion increasing the duties on pottery and glassware. These changes probably are only a beginning, as protests are being received from manufacturers and producers in all parts of the country and every incoming train is bringing delegations who are prepared to demand that amendments be offered.

The amendment adopted by the house caucus was carried by an overwhelming vote. The argument in its support was that a trust controlled shoe machinery in this country, and for that reason it should be admitted duty free. This was the only change made in the metal schedule. Democrats seem disposed to reduce rates on products supposed to be controlled by so-called trusts, and accordingly the section of the bill placing steel rails and iron ore on the free list went through with a whoop.

When consideration of the metal schedule was concluded the caucus took up the lumber schedule, and every effort to place articles of wood on the dutiable list, nearly all of which are admitted free by the Underwood bill, was defeated. Every time such an amendment was offered it practically was howled down and no attempt was made to force a record vote in any instance.

An ugly feeling has been aroused over the sugar schedule. Members who want sugar admitted free immediately upon the passage of the bill, appear to be just as determined as some who are now trying for an extension of the dutiable period from three to five years. Efforts made by the opponents of free sugar and free wool to make a combination with other Democrats who are opposed to some of the features of the Underwood bill have failed. Present indications are that it will be impossible to effect any alliances among the disaffected elements against the organization headed by Representative Underwood. The organization has the support of the administration, and it is this fact that deters members disgruntled over the tariff bill from getting together.

The house caucus probably will be projected into next week, as little progress has been made.

On the senate side it is declared that there will be no weakening on the part of those Democratic senators who have pronounced in opposition to free sugar. A canvass of the situation on the Democratic side of the senate shows that while some of the western senators who have been classed as opposed to free sugar have shown no signs of weakening and supporting the president's policy, there is reason to believe that the opposition to free sugar has made some headway among the Democratic senators in the south. It is understood that most of the independents and Progressives in the senate will oppose the removal of the sugar duty.

For the first time in the history of the party the Republicans of the house of representatives held an open caucus last night. On motion of Representative James R. Mann of Illinois, Republican leader, the press representatives were invited to attend the caucus, which was called for the purpose of condemning the Democratic tariff bill. At a meeting to be held later the Republicans will decide whether all of their caucuses shall be open to the press.

A resolution was presented setting forth that the Republicans favored the creation of a tariff commission to inquire into all questions relating to the customs laws. It was decided after an hour's debate to offer as substitutes for the Underwood bill the reports of the Taft tariff board on particular schedules, these reports proposing rates lower than those in the existing law, but not quite as low as those of the Underwood bill.

BRUSSELS PREPARING FOR GIGANTIC STRIKE

People Laying In Stores of Necessities.

Brussels, April 12.—Outwardly this city today wears its habitual expression of busy cheerfulness. The streets are filled with animated pedestrians and all the restaurants and theaters are well patronized. Everything seems to be normal, but beneath the surface there is deep anxiety over the general strike which is to be inaugurated on Monday for a universal suffrage bill. The people are laying in big stores of the perishable necessities of life.

The strike is an unusual one. It has nothing to do with wages or hours, but is directed solely against the government and is aimed at forcing a revision of the franchise.

Premier Broqueville is convinced that the strike will not succeed. If it did it would mean revolution, he declares.

Alleged Wire Tapper Taken.

New York, April 12.—Information has been received at police headquarters that Albert A. Carter, charged with robbing Simeon Jones of Pittsburgh of $20,000 and Major William Pendleton of Atlantic City of $5,500 by the "wire tapping" swindle, was under arrest at Charleston, S. C. With him were taken J. A. Dowling, a Louisiana hotel keeper, charged with being one of the wire tapping gang, and Frank Tarbeaux, also accused of being one of Carter's associates in swindling.

Then He Gave Himself Up.

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 12.—Madened when he saw a man leaving his wife's apartment at the home of her mother here, Everett Davis seized a shotgun and shot her dead. He then walked to the police station and gave himself up.

Warning Fatal to Himself.

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 12.—Trying to warn companions of a live wire with which he had come in contact Ralph E. Linville of Medford struck the wire a second time and was killed.

Student Commits Suicide.

Valparaiso, Ind., April 12.—A. J. Vick, from Milwaukee, music student, committed suicide by drowning. No cause is known.

President Wilson gives the impression that he is not worrying much over the prospect of trouble with the Japanese government arising from the California alien land legislation.

CONFLICT WITH MEXICAN POLICE

Leads to Killing of Two American Sailors.

SERIOUS CLASH AT MAZATLAN

Following a Street Fight in Port on the Western Coast, Chief of Police of Mazatlan Is Reported to Have Slain Two Members of the Crew of the Cruiser California—Bluejackets at a Disadvantage on Shore.

Washington, April 12.—The killing of a petty officer and one of the seamen of the cruiser California by Mexican police at Mazatlan on the west coast is reported to the navy department and the state department. The chief of police at Mazatlan is reported to have done the actual shooting following a street fight. The city authorities have expressed their regret over the occasion and investigations are being made by the consular officers and by the naval authorities. The men killed were John A. Klesow, master of arms, of San Francisco, and William A. Corrie, ordinary seaman, of Los Angeles.

Several clashes have occurred between American sailors and soldiers in Mexican ports since the revolutionary troubles of Mexico of the last two years. Two American naval officers were assaulted by a mob in the streets of Acapulco some months ago, and there have been several clashes along the border. At Panama last July six American soldiers were shot and several killed by the local police. American bluejackets and soldiers are at a great disadvantage when they come into conflict with local police in Latin American countries, because of the fact that they are never allowed to bear arms ashore, while the police in these countries all carry rifles, which they have often used upon the American enlisted men.

THEATER CROWD MENACED

Fireman Discovered Bomb Just in Time to Avert Horror.

New York, April 12.—A fireman detailed to duty in the Jefferson theater on East Fourteenth street, pinched out the sizzling fuse of a deadly nitroglycerine bomb last night while an audience of 1,500 persons sat inside applauding a pair of buck and wing dancers and unconscious of danger.

The bomb was found on the stairs leading from the lobby of the theater to a lavatory in the basement. Half of the fuse had burned out and the rest was going fast when the fireman found the explosive. Holding the fuse between his fingers, he hurried to a pail and plunged it in. It was what is known as a chemical bomb and would have blown the building to pieces if it had exploded.

JUDGE HARD ON THE MOVIES

Says They Make More Criminals Than Any Other Three Agencies.

New York, April 12.—"Moving picture shows," said Judge Ryan in the Children's court, "are making thieves of hundreds of children in the city every year. It is not the pictures themselves that do the work, but every day we have cases of boys in this court who have stolen to get money to go to the shows."

"If there are any three agencies in the city which make more criminals in the course of a year than the picture shows, I have not come in contact with them."

A fourteen-year-old boy had just admitted to the judge that he had stolen a watch from his employer so that he could get money enough to go to the "movies."

BUFFALO QUIETING DOWN

Street Railway Strike Adjusted by Amicable Agreement.

Buffalo, April 12.—The strike of motormen and conductors of the International railway has been settled and service on the city, Niagara Falls and Lockport lines was resumed today. The strike on the Buffalo and Lake Erie and the Buffalo Southern lines will be settled on the same basis. The three regiments of the Fourth brigade which have been on strike duty here have been ordered to disband.

The men claim a complete victory, although they receded from their demand that the question of wages and hours, which are left to a committee of employees, should be conducted through representatives of the union.

Thought He Could Walk on Water.

Plymouth, April 12.—A steerage passenger of the name of Duro, on the American liner St. Paul, which arrived here last night, who declared that he could walk on the sea as Christ did, jumped from the vessel in midocean on April 9. He was rescued but died later on from shock. He had read the Bible throughout the voyage.

Dispensing State Relief Fund.

Indianapolis, April 12.—Drawing on a state relief fund to which citizens of several states have contributed, Governor Ralston has sent $7,000 to Posey county and $5,000 to Terre Haute to be used for extending relief to flood sufferers.

MORGAN'S BODY LIES IN NEW YORK HOME

Flags at Half Mast When Vessel Arrived.

New York, April 12.—With the body of J. P. Morgan the steamship France came up the bay late yesterday afternoon, flags at half mast on boat and pier, drooping and veiled by a steady rain. The coffin, covered with an American flag so that only a strip of the plain oak was visible, was borne ashore while bare-headed French officers and stewards and cabin boys stood at attention and the ship's orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner."

The flag that was draped over the coffin was the one presented by the United States through Ambassador Herriek to the France when she started on her first voyage a year ago. It was hidden by flowers.

On the coffin was a cross of the Legion of Honor, and against the wall of the lower end of the bier stood a great cross of pink orchids from the kaiser with the inscription, "William, Rex, Imperator."

When J. P. Morgan, jr., boarded the France he went immediately to the suite of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee. Mr. Morgan then went below and spent fifteen minutes alone in the chapel beside the body of his father.

When all other passengers had left the vessel the men of the funeral party assembled in the mortuary chapel to follow the body to the hearse. Through the driving rain the hearse slowly carried its burden to the Morgan home, where the body will lie until taken to St. George's church for the funeral services at 10 o'clock Monday.

T. R.'s Defeat.

It's rather mean of a Democratic newspaper to lambast Roosevelt and the Bull Moose party after all he and his party did for the Democrats, but the Arizona Democrat, published at Phoenix, Arizona, delivers the following obituary on Roosevelt, under the editorial heading, "Teddy's Last Strick."

The election in St. Louis demonstrated fully the political death of that arch humbug Roosevelt. There were three tickets in the field for mayor—a Roosevelt candidate and a Taft republican candidate, and it was thought that Dr. Simon, the democrat, would be an easy winner, but when the votes were counted, to the surprise of everybody, the Taft republican candidate won by 2500 majority, with the democrat second and the Roosevelt candidate no where in sight. What makes this election interesting, is that Kele, the republican candidate, was chosen a delegate to the Chicago convention at the last primaries and was supported by Roosevelt, but the gentleman, after taking his seat in the national convention, voted for and supported Taft for president—so when the time for electing a mayor arrived in St. Louis the Taft republicans nominated Kele for mayor. There went up a wild whoop from Terry. He denounced Kele as a traitor, a thief, and by open letter asked every honest man in St. Louis to vote against him, and as St. Louis was strong for Roosevelt at the last election, it was generally conceded that the democratic candidate had an easy victory in sight, but the overwhelming election of the Taft candidate shows conclusively that the people have repudiated Roosevelt and his sham pretenses. Chicago, like St. Louis gave him a solar plexus. Now comes the Republican and tells us that Teddy is going to "dip into New York politics." Well, good Lord, we say, let him dip, and the way the old rogue will "dip out" again will be amusing. Surely the days of humbugs, sham reformers and bogus progressives are at an end, and the sane, sober sense of a thoughtful, patriotic American people is once more in evidence. To all of which we say, Amen.

Boil all water and pasteurize all milk used in the districts now suffering from flood and storm, is the warning sent out by The Journal of the American Medical Association. The immediate havoc wrought to life and property is only a part of the results of storm and flood, for following in their wake will stalk sickness and death from exposure, the unavoidable lack of food, medicines and care, and disorganized sanitary conditions, with polluted water. Naturally, says The Journal, we may expect a large amount of pneumonia and other congestive diseases in the afflicted areas, as the results of exposure on the part of the survivors. Little can be done to avoid these, but epidemics of some infectious diseases can be successfully guarded against. Where sewerage and water systems have affected, the slogan for several weeks must be boil the water and pasteurize the milk. With the breaking of dams and sewers and the flooding of water-supplies whether of wells or reservoirs, the water is bound to be polluted, and typhoid fever is almost certain to become wide-spread unless the simple precaution of boiling the water is immediately adopted. This should be continued in every household for weeks and perhaps months until danger from this source is past.

The Newcastle Star is still telling of the wonderful Bull Moose organization and spirit in remotely removed states, but makes no comment on the Bull Moose loss in the adjoining state of Michigan—nor in Chicago. And there's St. Louis, too.

Amusements

The Princess will show a Lubin drama "Who is the Savage?" for the first picture tonight. It is a story of society life. The other is a Vitagraph comedy entitled "His Wife's Relation."

The Palace offers the usual two pictures tonight. "Tom, Dick and Harry and that Rag Time Dance" is the title of the first, which is a comedy. "The Phantom in the Night" is the other picture, a drama.

Next week the patrons of the Murat Theater, Indianapolis, will laugh at the lines their great, great grand parents enjoyed in "She Stoops to Conquer," and they will share with Annie Russell's Old English Comedy Company in the wit and laughter and jollity of Oliver Goldsmith's comedy of eternal youthfulness. Once again the genius of Goldsmith will make its appeal, and the charity of the lines, the sparkle and wholesomeness of the comedy will make Annie Russell's coming doubly welcome. Miss Russell will portray the charming and volatile Kate Hardcastle, Oswald Yorke will be seen as young Marlow and George Gliddens as the roystering, joke-loving Tony Lumpkin. The play will be repeated on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday night, at the Saturday matinee and a special $1.00 matinee on Wednesday. The regular evening prices will prevail.

"The rivals," Sheridan's, famous comedy of all times will be the second offering of the weeks' engagement and will be given Wednesday and Thursday night. Here Miss Russell is content to appear as a sentimental lady of the past generation and should be a charming figure in the voluminous skirts, the dainty cap and mining, exquisite sentimentality of the eighteenth century.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

IN A FEW WORDS.

(Kokomo Tribune.)

The Indianapolis Star finds it can publish all it is willing for its readers to know of the result of the election in Michigan this week in just a very few words. And it chooses an obscure space on an inside page for the presentation of this prudently abbreviated bit of news. The Star considerably spares its readers as much as possible the painful experience of discovering that Michigan was carried by the Republicans with a hurrah. And that, too, after Roosevelt and Beveridge had stumped the state and warned the people that they must not permit the wicked Republicans to return to their own. The Michigan voters, like those of Chicago and St. Louis and many cities in New York, gave convincing proof of the fact that the Republican party is very much alive.

The Newcastle Courier has the following about a former Carthage man: "Friends of Michael Kyser and Miss Gouldie Hiatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hiatt, will be surprised to learn of the marriage of the young couple who eloped and were married January 26.

"Mr. Kyser is a timable young man of this city, employed by Mr. Henderson in his barber shop. Mrs. Kyser has been in the office of Dr. Stafford for six years and has won many friends who wish her well. The bride and groom will make their home in this city."

WALL PAPER Its Influence is Ever Present

There is nothing that contributes more to the beauty and cheerfulness of a room than WALL PAPER. It serves as a background for all of the other furnishings, pictures and bric-a-brac. Its influence is ever present and like books in the library reflects the character and artistic taste of the household; and while it need not of necessity be costly, it should be selected with care.

Enumeration Shows There Are 1,701
Voters in Rushville.

Multiplying the number of voters in the city of Rushville, 1,701, which is according to the six-year enumeration which has just been completed by M. V. Spivey, by five, which is the rule followed to determine population, it is found that there are 8,505 people in Rushville. The voters are divided as follows:

First Ward—white 411, colored 64.
Second Ward—white 476, colored 8.
Third Ward—white 733, colored 9.

Mr. Spivey says that I. N. Martin of Buena Vista Avenue, who was 92 years old last October, is the oldest man in the city, and that M. S. Shropshire has voted at every election in Rushville since 1865.

An eight pound girl was born to the wife of Lee Shy, colored, at their home in West Second street yesterday.

FARMERS HELP THE FUND ALONG

The tickets are on sale at all of the drug stores and at the Bliss Milinery company store.

Walter Easley, proprietor of the Princess theater, donated $20 of the proceeds from last night's show to the fund. He was very generous in this because the net amount taken in at the door amounted to only $24.20, because of the counter attractions. The nightly expenses at the theater are $15, so that his contribution really means that he gave $10 personally.

The way donations of bedclothes were brought to the Daily Republican office this afternoon by farmers indicates late today that there will be need of many more automobiles than have already been offered. Ten or fifteen good housewives from the country drove up to the office with their buggies packed full of nice, clean comforts and blankets that had evidently never been used except on the "spare" bed.

LITTLE GIRL HELPS.

Thursday John F. McKee, Glenwood, R. R. 28, made a contribution to the relief fund. Kathleen, his daughter, pleaded to help. She finally had her way. Her father purchased a beautiful doll, that goes to sleep, has real hair and regular eyelashes, and she dressed it like a queen. Today Miss Kathleen presented it to the fund—and she was very proud because she felt she had done her share.

RAFFLE TUESDAY NIGHT

The bedroom suit, on which chances are now being sold for the relief fund, will be raffled off at Betker's Shop next Tuesday evening at seven-thirty o'clock. It was anticipated this afternoon that two hundred tickets would be sold before night, and that four or five hundred might be disposed of in the allotted time. The bedroom suit is valued at sixty dollars. It was originally donated to the fund, but it was thought that more could be realized by raffling it off, which was suggested by the donors, the Rushville Furniture Company. The suit is on display in Wyatt's furniture store window.

The third quarterly meeting of the St. Paul M. E. church will be held at the church next Tuesday evening. The Rev. V. W. Tevis, the district superintendent, will preside.

COLD IN HEAD GOES OVERNIGHT

Don't try to break up that bad cold with dangerous stomach disturbing drugs. Get directly to the inflamed membrane by breathing Booth's HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me). Get a bottle for 50 cents at F. B. Johnson and Company and try the safe treatment that thousands are using.

Into a bowl of boiling water pour a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI, cover the head and bowl with a towel, and breathe deep into the lungs the healing vapor that arises.

Breathe this vapor for five or ten minutes until the head feels fine and clear, then go to bed and sleep soundly until morning. No cocaine or opium or harmful drugs in Booth's HYOMEI. It is made of Australian Eucalyptus and other antiseptics. It is guaranteed to end Colds and Catarrh or money back. Just breathe it—no stomach dosing.

"My friend:
"I said that I could not write to you—that we must wait. You were willing; but there is much to be accomplished, and the silence may be long. My father is not an easy man to please, but he desires my happiness and will listen to my plea when the right hour comes. When you have shown your place—when you have shown yourself to be the man I feel you to be, then my father will recognize your worth, and the way will be cleared, despite the obstacles which now intervene.

"But meantime! Ah, you will not know it, but words will rise—the heart must find utterance. What the lip cannot utter, nor the looks reveal, these pages shall hold in sacred trust for you till the day when my father will place my hand in yours, with heartfelt approval.

"Is it a folly? A woman's weak evasion of the strong silence of man? You may say so some day; but somehow, I doubt it—I doubt it."
The creaking of a chair—the man within had seated himself. There was no other sound; a soul in turmoil wakens no echoes. Sweetwater envied the walls surrounding the unsympathetic reader. They could see. He could only listen.

A little while; then that slight rustling again of the unfolding sheet. The following was read, and then the fourth and last:

"Dearest:
"Did you think I had never seen you till that day we met in Lenox? I am going to tell you a secret—a great, great secret—such a one as a woman hardly whispers to her own heart.

"One day, in early summer, I was sitting in St. Bartholomew's church on Fifth avenue, waiting for the services to begin. It was early and the congregation was assembling. While idly watching the people coming in, I saw a gentleman pass by me up the aisle, who made me forget all the others. He had not the air of a New Yorker; he was not even dressed in city style, but as I noted his face and expression, I said way down in my heart, 'That is the kind of man I could love; the only man I have ever seen who could make me forget my own world and my own people.' It was a passing thought, soon forgotten. But when in that hour of embarrassment and peril on Greylock mountain, I looked up into the face of my rescuer and saw again that countenance which so short a time before had called into life impulses till then utterly unknown, I knew that my hour was come. And that was why my confidence was so spontaneous and my belief in the future so absolute.

"I trust your love which will work wonders; and I trust my own, which sprang at a look but only gathered strength and permanence when I found that the soul of the man I loved bettered his outward attractions, making the ideal of my foolish girlhood seem as unsubstantial and evanescent as a dream in the glowing noontide."

"My Own:
"I can say so now; for you have written to me, and I have the dancing words with which to silence any unsought doubt which might subdue the exuberance of these secret outpourings.

"I did not expect this. I thought that you would remain as silent as myself. But men's ways are not our ways. They cannot exhaust longing in purposeless words on scraps of soulless paper, and I am glad that they cannot. I love you for your impatience; for your purpose, and for the manliness which will win you yet all that you covet of fame, accomplishment and love. You expect no reply, but there are ways in which one can keep silent and yet speak. Won't you be surprised when your answer comes in a manner you have never thought of?"

CHAPTER XX.

Confusion.

In his interest in what was going on on the other side of the wall, Sweetwater had forgotten himself. Daylight had declined, but in the darkness of the closet this change had passed unheeded. Night itself might come, but that should not force him to leave his post so long as his neighbor remained behind his locked door, brooding over the words of love and devotion which had come to him, as it were, from the other world.

But was he brooding? That sound of iron clattering upon iron! That smothered exclamation and the laugh which ended it! Anger and determination rang in that laugh. It had a hideous sound which prepared Sweetwater for the smell which now reached his nostrils. The letters were burning; this time the lid had been lifted from the stove with unrelenting purpose. Poor Edith Challoner's touching words had met a different fate from any which she, in her ignorance of this man's nature—a nature to which she had ascribed untold perfections—could possibly have conceived.

As Sweetwater thought of this, he stirred nervously in the darkness, and broke into silent invective against the man who could so insult the memory of one who had perished under the blight of his own coldness and misunderstanding. Then he suddenly started back surprised and apprehensive. Brotherson had unlocked his door, and was coming rapidly his way. Sweetwater heard his step in the hall and had hardly time to bound from his closet, when he saw his own door burst in and found himself face to face with his redoubtable neighbor, in a state of such rage as few men could meet without quailing, even were they of his own stature, physical vigor and prowess; and Sweetwater was a small man.

However, disappointment such as he had just experienced brings with it a desperation which often outdoes courage, and the detective, smiling with an air of gay surprise, shouted out:

"Well, what's the matter now? Has the machine busted, or tumbled into the fire or sailed away to lands unknown out of your open window!"

"You were coming out of that closet," was the fierce rejoinder. "What have you got there? Something which concerns me, or why should your face go pale at my presence and your forehead drip with sweat? Don't think that you've deceived me for a moment as to your business here. I recognized you immediately. You've played the stranger well, but you've a nose and an eye nobody could forget. I have known all along that I had a police spy for a neighbor; but it didn't faze me. I've nothing to conceal, and wouldn't mind a regiment of you fellows if you'd only play a straight game. But when it comes to foisting upon me a parcel of letters to which I have no right, and then setting a fellow like you to count my groans or whatever else they expected to hear, I have a right to defend myself, and defend myself I will, by God! But first, let me be sure that my accusations will stand. Come into this closet with me. It abuts on the wall of my room and has its own secret, I know. What is it? I have you at an advantage now, and you shall tell."

He did have Sweetwater at an advantage, and the detective knew it and disdained a struggle which would have only called up a crowd, friendly to the other but inimical to himself. Allowing Brotherson to drag him into the closet, he stood quiescent, while the determined man who held him with one hand, felt about with the other over the shelves and along the partitions till he came to the hole which had offered such a happy means of communication between the two rooms. Then, with a laugh almost as bitter in tone as that which rang from Brotherson's lips, he acknowledged that business had its necessities and that apologies from him were in order; adding, as they both stepped out into the rapidly darkening room:

"We've played a bout, we two; and you've come out ahead. Allow me to congratulate you, Mr. Brotherson. You've cleared yourself so far as I am concerned. I leave this ranch tonight." The frown had come back to the forehead of the indignant man who confronted him.

"So you listened," he cried; "listened when you weren't sneaking under my eye! A fine occupation for a man who can dove-tail a corner like an adept. I wish I had let you join the brotherhood who were good enough to mention. They would know how to appreciate your double gifts and how to reward your excellence in the one, if not in the other. What did the police expect to learn about me that they should consider it necessary to call into exercise such extraordinary talents?"

"I'm not good at conundrums. I was given a task to perform, and I performed it," was Sweetwater's sturdy reply. Then slowly, with his eye fixed directly upon his antagonist, "I guess they thought you a man. And so did I until I heard you burn those letters. Fortunately we have copies."

"Letters!" Fury thickened the speaker's voice, and lent a savage gleam to his eye. "Forgeries! Make believe! Miss Challoner never wrote the drivel you dare to designate as letters. It was concocted at police headquarters. They made me tell my story and then they found some one who could wield the poetic pen. I'm obliged to them for the confidence they show in my credulity. I credit Miss Challoner with such words as have been given me to read here today; I knew the lady, and I know myself. Nothing that passed between us, not an event in which we were both concerned, has been forgotten by me, and no feature of our intercourse fits the language you have ascribed to her. On the contrary, there is a lamentable contradiction between facts as they were and the fancies you have made her indulge in. And this, as you must acknowledge, not only proves their falsity, but exonerates Miss Challoner from all possible charge of sentimentality."

"Yet she certainly wrote those letters. We had them from Mr. Challoner. The woman who brought them was really her maid. We have not deceived you in this."

"I do not believe you."
It was not offensively said; but the conviction it expressed was absolute. Sweetwater recognized the tone, as one of truth, and inwardly laid down his arms. He could never like the man; there was too much iron in his fiber; but he had to acknowledge that as a foe he was invulnerable and therefore admirable to one who had the good sense to appreciate him.

"I do not want to believe you." Thus did Brotherson supplement his former sentence. "For if I were to attribute those letters to her, I should have to acknowledge that they were written to another man than myself. And this would be anything but agreeable to me. Now I am going to my room and to my work. You may spend the rest of the evening or the whole night, if you will, listening at that hole. As heretofore, the labor will be all yours, and the indifference mine."

With a satirical play of feature which could hardly be called a smile, he nodded and left the room.

CHAPTER XXI.

A Change.

"It's all up. I'm beaten on my own ground." Thus confessed Sweetwater, in great dejection, to himself. "But I'm going to take advantage of the permission he's just given me and continue the listening act. Just because he told me to and just because he thinks I won't. I'm sure it's no worse than to spend hours of restless tossing in bed, trying to sleep."

But our young detective done neither.
As he was putting his supper dishes away, a messenger boy knocked at his door and handed him a note. It was from Gryce and ran thus:

"Steal off, if you can, and as soon as you can, and meet me in Twenty-ninth street. A discovery has been made which alters the whole situation."

HE INVENTS BOXING ARMOR.

Physical Director Provides Means to Avoid Injury.

The manly art as a part of the regular course of study in connection with the physical training branch of the schools of the United States was discussed in the annual convention of the National Physical Education association in Newark, N. J., recently.

Six hundred delegates witnessed in the First Regiment armory interesting demonstrations of a device designed by Dr. Guy Otis Brewster, director of physical training of the public schools of Dover, N. J.

Eight husky young athletes selected from the Dover high school gave an exhibition and displayed Dr. Brewster's system. They used all the strength and skill of which they were possessed in landing right and left swings, hooks, jabs, uppercuts and cross counters, but all without the slightest injury to each other.

This was because the combatants were armor clad. Each wore a mask and body screen made of steel wire mesh, with thick felt shock absorbers and adjusted to the head and breast in such a manner as to resist impact from whatever angle.

URGES NAVY FUND FOR DIKES

Clergyman Declares Warship Money Would Stop Floods.

The government could save millions of dollars and many lives each year, the Rev. Tobias Schanfarber of Chicago told his congregation recently at the K. A. M. temple, East Thirty-third street and Indiana avenue, if the money spent for warships were spent in building dikes.

"It is an appropriate time to build defenses about our cities," he said.

"The government spends millions of dollars each year for warships and coast defense. If half that amount were spent in the protection of inland cities that are subject to floods the saving would be more than the money invested."

They Hear Guns Roar For Twenty Minutes and Have Eyes Opened.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS, secretary of the navy, had the first look at his ships recently at the southern drill grounds, Old Point Comfort, Va. He slept on board the flagship Wyoming with a high opinion of the magnitude of his new job and a much better idea of just what he is secretary of than he ever thought was possible.

Not only has Mr. Daniels been to sea, but he has been in battle. For twenty minutes he stood up under the terrific yellow blast from the Wyoming's twelve twelve-inch guns and watched the white germs as the shells ricocheted around the target nearly six miles away. He admitted that the firing, while it closed his ears, opened his eyes to the magnitude and efficiency of the United States navy. It is suspected that Mr. Daniels is a "big navy" man or will be.

Even Postmaster General Burleson, who was one of the chief opponents of a large navy when in congress, is beginning to think things over, and the officers of the fleet are well pleased with the day's work. Mr. Daniels is not the kind of secretary of the navy the men of the service are used to. The Wyoming carries an imposing battery of twelve twelve-inch rifles, but not twice this number fired in a single salvo could make Mr. Daniels wear a high hat. He salutes the flag like an American citizen and shakes hands like a grownup man, but he calls the starboard side of a ship the right and refers to the bow as the front, yet no one thought to criticize him for that. He seems to belong on board just the same.

Guns Roar Welcome.

The secretary came over the side of the Wyoming as she lay in Lynn Haven Roads at half past 8 o'clock in the morning. He wore a long cutaway coat, the same striped trousers he wore at Democratic headquarters last fall and a small gray cap pulled well down on his forehead. He dragged the cap off as he was handed aboard by Captain Frederick L. Chapin of the Wyoming and received by Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, commander in chief of the fleet, and his staff. He put out his hand and said "Hello." Rear Admiral Badger had a nice little speech prepared, but he cut it down to "Hello, Mr. Secretary," and then the guns roared out their nineteenfold greeting. The ceremonies were over.

Behind Mr. Daniels came Secretaries McAdoo, Wilson, Houston and Lane. Postmaster General Burleson, Secretary McAdoo's two young sons and Robert Martin, his secretary; Rear Admiral N. C. Twining and Rear Admiral Bradley C. Fiske. By this time the salute was finished, and Mr. Daniels put his cap back on his head and started in to see just what there is to the navy.

When Secretary Daniels left the Dolphin, on board which he went down to the capes from Washington, the women of the party, who included Mrs. Daniels, Mrs. Burleson, Miss Nina McAdoo, Miss Eleanor Wilson, Mrs. W. B. Wilson and Miss Bones, left the Dolphin on board another cutter and were taken aboard the Idaho, which followed the firing ships. The secretary thought it best for the women to be aboard a ship which was not going to fire, but would witness the firing from a safe distance.

The battleships got under way for the drill grounds immediately, the Wyoming leading, followed by the Florida, the North Carolina and the Idaho. Five miles off the capes the Delaware, which had just come down from the Boston navy yard, was sighted and turned into the column, a poor fourth.

Mr. Daniels Surprised.

Secretary Daniels' party took to the bridge to watch the work of navigation. Later they inspected the engine room, the quarters, fire rooms, bunks and other parts of the ship. Mr. Dan-

YOUNG EDISON AN INVENTOR.

He Designs Bomb For Hostile Ships, but It Acts Shabbily.

Theodore Edison, the fourteen-year-old son of Thomas A. Edison, was experimenting with explosives recently in an effort to invent a bomb that would float about on the water and explode with tremendous effect whenever it happened to be touched by a hostile vessel. Friendly vessels would, of course, avoid touching the bomb.

To Theodore's mind the best way to shape up the device would be to inclose it in an air tight bottle and put the bottle in a casing of cork, so that it would be sure not to sink. He had proceeded as far as mixing the explosive and depositing it in the glass bottle when the explosive went off. Theodore had the bottle in his hand, and the pieces of glass penetrated the hand.

The boy is not going to suffer permanently from his wounds, but Mrs. Edison has decreed that his future experiments with explosives shall be under the supervision of his father.

els was plainly surprised at what he saw and said so.

"I'm a two battleship man, Mr. Secretary," said Secretary McAdoo after the party had been at sea for half an hour. "Well, it's a beautiful ship," replied the secretary of the navy. "I still think I was right," said Mr. Burleson. "We've been going ahead too fast. Still, as you say, it's a magnificent ship. Let's see how many have we like this."

"One other," answered Lieutenant Commander Leigh C. Palmer, naval aid to the secretary. "Only one?" said Mr. Daniels. "Well, well!"

The targets, three of them in tow of the Connecticut, the South Carolina and the Minnesota, were sighted on the hazy southern horizon a few minutes after 12 o'clock. The big battleships towing them were barely distinguishable, and the targets themselves looked like pinholes in a blanket.

Marksman Improving.

"I understand you hit those things about once out of ten times," said Mr. Daniels. "We used to," replied Commander Carl T. Vogelgesang, "but we do better now." Commander Charles F. Hughes, chief of staff, and Pay Inspector Samuel McGowan began to pass around wads of cotton, and members of the party stuffed their ears. The firing was deferred, however, for after the Wyoming had come about twice to get the proper range a tramp steamship stood in between the battleships, and the Wyoming slowed down for half an hour until the intruder was safely out of the way.

Secretary Daniels and his party climbed up to the searchlight turret, just above the bridge, as the turrets swung to starboard, and the great muzzles rose menacingly. Everybody was in tense expectancy. Mr. Daniels seized one of the rods of the basket mast and held fast. He was just in time, for one of the guns in the forward turret, which was fired to determine the range, let go with a terrific crash. The hot blast of the flame and yellow ether vapor struck the head of the navy full in the face, but he only pulled his cap down over his head and took a grip with both hands.

Gets a "Genuine Thrill."

The Wyoming after firing seventy-two shots lowered the red firing flag and steamed over to examine the target, and the North Dakota and the Florida, six and eight miles astern, repeated the performance on the other targets.

"I tell you," said Mr. Daniels when he descended from the platform, "there are several times in a man's life when he gets a genuine thrill—his first pair of red top boots, his first top, his first girl and a time like this. You see, it's like this: I'm secretary of the navy without knowing any more about it than the average country editor. So I'm going to make it a study. One of the mysteries to me is the wireless."

As he spoke Commander Hughes handed him a wireless message from F. D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy. "This is the second wireless message I ever received. I sent the first in my life this morning to my wife on board the Mayflower. The first I ever received was when she answered it half an hour later. It seems wonderful to me."

Later in the afternoon Lieutenant Byron McCandless, flag lieutenant, went over to the Idaho and brought the women of the party to the Wyoming, which took them back to Hampton Roads, and all the party except Secretary Daniels returned on board the Mayflower to Washington.

Mrs. Daniels and Miss Wilson were especially delighted with the ships. "I think we have a regular navy," Miss Wilson said. The Wyoming's band entertained the party with a concert on the after deck during the trip back.

With Secretary Daniels on board the Wyoming steamed to sea again and then acted as illumination ship for night torpedo practice.

BIG PLANE TO GUARD ENGLAND

Colonel Cody Designs Machine to Repel Invasion.

Colonel S. F. Cody, the American air man, who has become a naturalized English subject, is preparing to build an airship destroyer, comparable with a torpedo boat destroyer, to protect England against possible invasion by foreign airships. He said recently:

"My idea is to have an airship destroyer in the same way as you have a torpedo destroyer at sea. I have ordered a machine of 500 horsepower. It is difficult to predict exactly what an aeroplane of that size will do, but I expect it to be capable of lifting and carrying 2,500 pounds. Its highest speed would be somewhere between seventy-five and ninety miles an hour."

"The machine to which the engine is to be fitted will be a Cody biplane of the same type as the one that gained the war office prize of $25,000. It will be designed so as to be capable of guarding the air over England against invasion by foreign airships."

JURORS UPHOLD UNWRITTEN LAW

Husbands Justified in Beating Kissing Preachers.

THREE SUCH CASES AT KNOX

Parsons Whose Religious Tenets Gave Them Privilege of Kissing Whomsoever They Would Under the Guise of Ecclesiastical Ordinance, Encountered a Trio of Husbands Who Couldn't See It That Way.

Knox, Ind., April 12.—The unwritten law was invoked in Starke county when the grand jury, after a secret session occupying several days, came into court and refused to indict Frank Chapman and William and James Daugherty, prominent citizens of Knox, who were charged by the Rev. George Sarber and the Rev. Mr. Logan, preachers of the Church of the First Born, with assault with intent to kill. It is a doctrine of this faith that its apostles are free to kiss whomsoever they will under the guise of a religious ordinance. Mrs. Chapman confessed to her husband that Sarber and Logan had frequently kissed her in the frenzy of religious passion, with the result that Chapman nearly killed Sarber, while William and James Daugherty visited similar vengeance on the Rev. Mr. Logan for the same practice in their homes.

AN APPEAL TO CHILDREN

Pupils of Schools Urged to Observe Arbor Day All the Year.

Indianapolis, April 12.—Following the action of Governor Ralston in issuing a proclamation designating the third Friday in April as Arbor day, Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, has issued an appeal to school officials of the state to participate in an observance of the day and "to foster in the minds of school children a sentiment not only for preserving and protecting birds, plants and trees, but for co-operating with all movements to make cleaner and more attractive surroundings."

Mr. Greathouse also in addressing a letter to the pupils of the public schools, urging that they identify themselves "in some active way not only with the observance of this special day, but with this great work at all times of the year." Besides planting trees, flowers, vines and shrubs and protecting birds, Mr. Greathouse urges that the pupils interest themselves in beautifying the grounds about their homes and school buildings.

FLOOD RELIEF CONTINUES

It Will Be Weeks Before Need For Aid Ceases.

Evansville, Ind., April 12.—Flood relief under federal and local direction continues in the Green river and lower Ohio stretches. Rumsey, Ky., has a smallpox epidemic.

The government has dispatched a boat to Smith Mills, Ky., and Captain W. K. Naylor, in charge of relief here, sent another boat to down river points to investigate newly reported cases of need.

Enterprise, Ind., is asking for more help, and Mayor John H. Moeller of Mt. Vernon said here that at least 3,000 persons in the lower Wabash district would be dependent on public assistance for another month.

Increases Toll of Death.

Indianapolis, April 12.—The body of Chester Arnold, nineteen years old, a victim of the recent flood, was found in the "pool of death," where water stood twenty feet deep and from which three bodies have been taken, west of the Big Four and Belt railway crossing. The discovery of Arnold's body increases the known deaths due to the flood to ten, five persons having been drowned and the others having died from exposure.

Editor Gets Undesirable Mention.

Hartford City, Ind., April 12.—The Blackford county grand jury has ended its vice probe, returning 120 indictments, a majority of which cover misdemeanors. It makes a written report scoring the police officers here and at Montpelier for failure to enforce the laws, and brands George R. Dale, editor of the Montpelier Herald, as an "undesirable citizen" for his "yellow journal tendencies."

Plaintiff Loses White Slave Case.

Noblesville, Ind., April 12.—The "white slave" case of Dollie Gaw against Mollie Gant, brought here from Marion county on change of venue, was decided in favor of the defendant. The Gaw woman sued for $10,000, alleging she had been forcibly detained for immoral purposes in the Gant woman's house at Indianapolis.

No Clue to Supposed Murderers.

Valparaiso, Ind., April 12.—The body of Valentine Shanks, a Pennsylvania employe, was found in Salt creek, near here. His head had been badly cut and crushed. It is supposed that he was beaten and robbed and his body thrown into the stream, but there is no clue to the perpetrators.

TAMMANY MEETS AN UNCOMPROMISING FOE

Governor Sulzer Opens Warfare On Murphy.

Albany, N. Y., April 12.—Openly Governor Sulzer has commenced his fight to dethrone Charles F. Murphy as Democratic state leader. At a conference in the executive chamber, attended by over 100 Democrats and Progressives from all sections of the state, a committee of nine was appointed to draft a bill for a state-wide direct primary. Governor Sulzer asked the committee to remain in Albany and prepare for immediate introduction in the legislature of a bill carrying out his recommendations made in a message to the legislature Thursday which the Progressives and Democrats present declared met their views fully.

The Rev. O. R. Miller, editor of the Reform Bulletin told Governor Sulzer that if he took no backward step in his outlined plan to secure reform legislation he would be pointed to in the future as the greatest man in New York state of our times.

Ohio's Death List Grows.

Columbus, O., April 12.—Revised statistics compiled by field agents of the Red Cross reporting to the headquarters in this city, show that 500 or more persons were drowned in Ohio in the floods of March 25. The last previous estimate of the same authorities had made the death list 463.

Humor of the Flood.

Columbus, Ind., April 12.—"Are you dead? Answer," is a copy of a telegram sent from a local telegraph office by a distracted woman of this city to a relative in a flood-stricken district from whom she had been unable to get any word.

Pope Impatient to Be Up.

Rome, April 12.—The pope's partial recovery of strength is alarming the doctors and attendants, who are very much afraid of a relapse, as the pontiff insists upon sitting up and is very impatient to resume his audiences at any cost.

President Wilson has decided not to appoint negroes to any posts where opposition to their appointment is based on racial grounds.

Arzuco, Argentinian aviator, fell 1,200 feet and was killed at Buenos Ayres.

Make the Man Who Sells You a Buggy Show You Why you should buy the one he wants to sell you. Don't buy it just because he tells you it is made of second growth hickory and has a plugless yellow poplar body and full wrought gear. It may have, but if it has he can show you, so you will know beyond any doubt that it is made of the material he represents it to be made of and if he won't show you, you are justified in doubting his word, because any buggy built of this kind of material can be demonstrated in a way that will leave no doubt in your mind as to workmanship and material if it is built by men who know how to build buggies. If you are going to buy a buggy, take the time to visit our sample floor and let us show you how to find out what is beneath the paint on a buggy. We carry a complete line of buggies of all styles and if you are in the market a little time spent in our store will put you in a position to make a wise selection, whether you buy your buggy here or elsewhere. Get what you pay for when you buy your next buggy. There is a way to tell and we will show you how. Remember we sell the buggies that stay on the road longest and we guarantee every vehicle to be just as we represent it to you.

"Horrors" of Flood Recounted
In Song at Masonic Minstrels

With "When That Midnight Choo Choo Leaves for Alabam," "Moonlight Bay" and a few other tuneful, popular songs of the same swaggering note, the merry Masons' minstrel show proper was on at the Masonic temple last night after the "highbrow" first part of entertaining music and monologues had captivated an audience that filled to capacity the large assembly hall.

The company—it was the Victor opera company, if you please—included Mrs. Carl Beher and the Misses Helen Scott, Hazle Lytle, Georgia Wyatt and Norma Smith.

In the first part placards announced the numbers, and the audience gasped when it found the Victor Opera company was going to do a turn, and that "we have with us tonight" such shining personages as Louisa Tetrizina, Louise Homer, Maude Powell, Alma Gluck, Clarice Vance, Ada Jones, etc.

The company was applauded at its first appearance, and its rendition of "Carmena" won instant attention. Prof. Merle Maupin played all of the accompaniments on the piano. Miss Norma Smith (Ada Jones) gave a monologue, "A Shadow," playing her own accompaniment, so well that she had to respond with an encore.

"A Perfect Day," as sung by Miss Helen Scott (Alma Gluck), with violin accompaniment by Miss Georgia Wyatt (Maude Powell), struck a popular chord, and Mrs. Carl Beher (Louise Homer) sang "Could I" in beautiful contralto voice. The violin duet, "Barcarolle," by the Misses Mary Louise and Georgia Wyatt, was as enthusiastically received as any other number of the first part.

The audience was so insistent that Mrs. Beher and Miss Scott had to repeat the chorus of "Whispering Hope" as an encore. Miss Smith (Louisa Tetrizina) sang a soprano solo, "At Dawning" and a quartet composed of Mrs. Beher and the Misses Smith, Wyatt and Scott, sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Miss Hazel Lytle (Clarice Vance) furnished the only humorous number in the first part, "I'm Bringin' Up the Family," and it was a big hit.

Miss Norma Smith (Lucky Black) and Miss Georgia Wyatt (Albert Bright), dressed in Yama Yama suits, performed the end "men" antics and Mrs. Beher was the interlocutor. Here's where the local hits were many. Many of the Masons sat with their hands over their ears and their heads "ducked" ready for the next blow. Dr. Carl F. Beher's bald head did not escape the seathing witticisms of the company, nor did Will McColgin's reputation as a Beau Brummel. "Jimmy" Young had not been prepared for the worst, but he got it. And there were others.

Mrs. Beher sang "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and Prof. Maupin "filled in" with a medley on the piano. Miss Scott (Sallie Shoe-strings) sang a parody on "Waiting on the Robert E. Lee," which savored of recent flood "horror" in Rushville. The story of the song recounted brave deeds when the flood torrents roared, of men risking their lives in cellars and of many other arduous experiences on that memorable night. The applause was deafening. Miss Scott sang another humorous number that was very much appreciated.

Miss Hazel Lytle's singing of "Red Head," dressed in very appropriate costume, was one of the bright and shining spots in the last part. Miss Lytle fitted into the scenery very well and the by-play of the end "men" helped a lot. The Misses Wyatt and Smith sang "Pinkerton Detective Moon" and the company closed with ensemble medley of popular airs including "Eileen" and "That's How I Need You," and a toast in song to the Masons.

The entertainment was given by Phoenix lodge, No. 62, F. & A. M., and members and their families were guests.

OPINION ON TRUANCY LAW

Honan Holds 7 Years is Age to Begin.

In an opinion to Charles A. Great-house, state superintendent of public instruction, Attorney-General Honan asserts that the new truancy law, passed by the recent legislature, provides that children shall attend school after the day before the seventh anniversary of their birth and until the day before the fourteenth anniversary of their birth. In case the child is employed between the latter date and its sixteenth birthday it must be in school under the new law.

The Knights of Pythias will have work in the first rank Monday night.

FAIR ADMISSIONS
SAME AS LAST YEAR

Board Decides That Price Will Not Be Raised as Was Planned Last Fall.

WILL HAVE FAMILY TICKETS.

The Rush county fair board held an important meeting this afternoon in the assembly room of the court house. The board decided after an investigation to change the order made last fall regarding admission fees. It was decided this afternoon that the price for single tickets should be the same as in 1912, and that family and stockholders' tickets should again be used. The order last fall did away with family and stockholders' tickets, but the board upon investigation found that many opposed the plan and thought best to change it.

The board decided to accept the proposition of Purdue University and the extension department will send an exhibit here for the fair. The board will have a well drilled according to an order issued by the State Board of Health.

CARTHAGE MEN HURT.

While Walter Binford and John Julian, of Carthage, were working in a barn on the Binford farm near Carthage, a large piece of timber fell and struck both of them. They were rendered unconscious for a few moments. Mr. Binford was the more seriously hurt and ten stitches had to be taken to close the scalp wound. Mr. Julian suffered a slight wound in the back of his head.

An eight pound baby boy was born to the wife of John Brown, I. & C. head lineman, at their home in West Third street this morning, and the physician reports that Mr. Brown, although pleased almost to distraction, has not lost a one of his two hundred and fifty pounds.

WHAT WILL A SOAKING DO
TO YOUR NEW SPRING SUIT?

- What guarantee did you get with your new spring suit?
- Can you be sure it will look as well next month as it did when new?
- What will long, hard wear, do to its fit and shapeliness?
- Will the freshness and gloss of the fabric vanish if you get soaked in a sudden shower?
- If you don't know, then you didn't buy a Wooltex suit or coat. For if you buy Wooltex, you are safe on all these points and some others.

The pure wool fabric and the superb, hand-worked "soft" tailoring in Wooltex garments make them proof against wear and wet.

- Wooltex are the garments that stay new. The character that you see on the surface goes all the way through.
- If you have not yet bought your new spring coat or suit, remember this.
- Wooltex garments are for sale here—and, in this locality, here only.
- Prices are reasonable—no higher than for the ordinary and inferior makes.
- Come and see them.

BAKE LESS OFTEN

: Save Work and Fuel :

If you use CLARK'S PURITY FLOUR you can bake a double batch of bread at one time, and bake less often. For CLARK'S PURITY bread keeps fresh, and retains its sweetness and flavor longer than any other bread. This saves the work and fuel cost of several baking days EACH MONTH. The reason CLARK'S PURITY makes better bread, with better keeping qualities than other bread is because it is an absolutely CLEAN FLOUR.
